Children of Time
In a temporary land,
With minutes and days
And weeks and years,

Flashes of color, a snatch of song, And the long stretch of time Playing out like a childhood rhyme:

Monday's child, Wednesday's woe
The span of the week,
The arc of the door,
The measure by which you trace
Your moods, your graces,
What you are, what you know.

Monday's Child Is Fair of Face:

One thing we do have at West Georgia is an abundance of fair faces. And hands. And bodies. There are fair faces for the guys . . . and fair faces for the girls. There are a lot of not-so-fair faces too. But maybe these are the best of all. They have character.

Even the week seems to put on a fair face on Mondays. Everything is new and fresh; maybe the sun shines a little brighter.

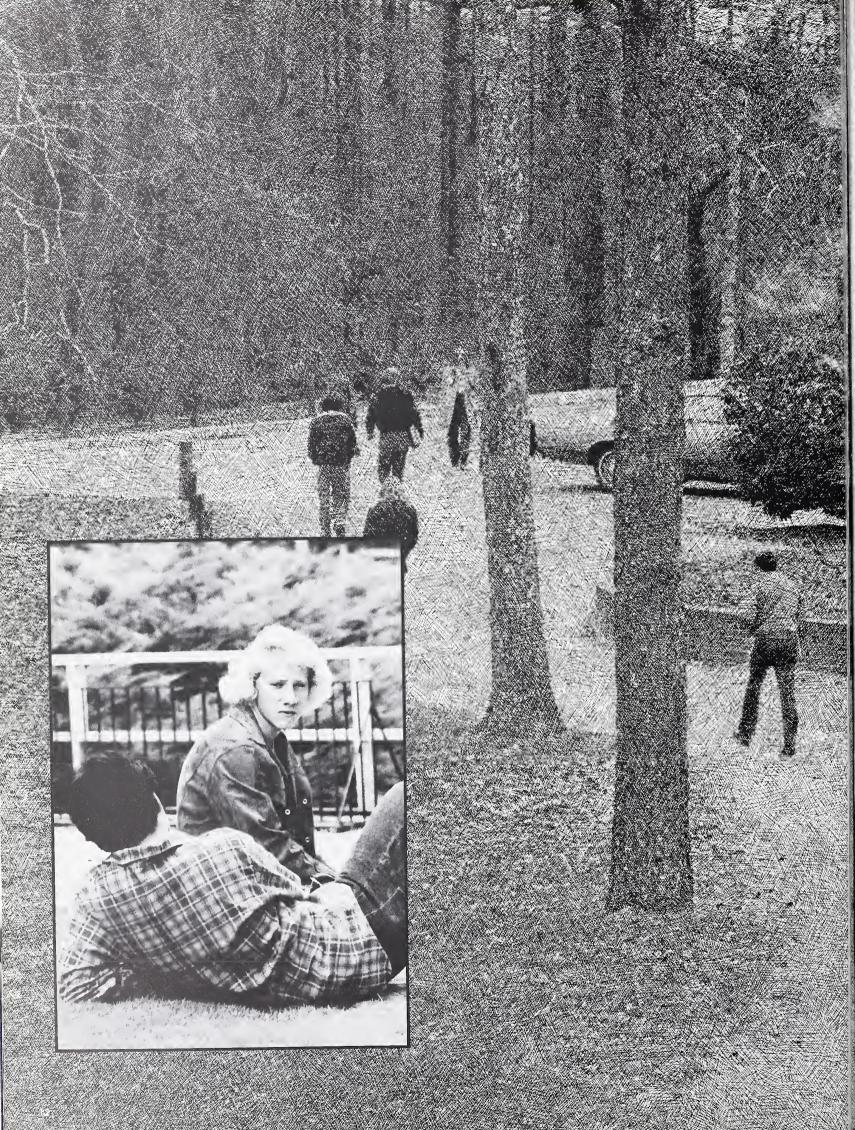

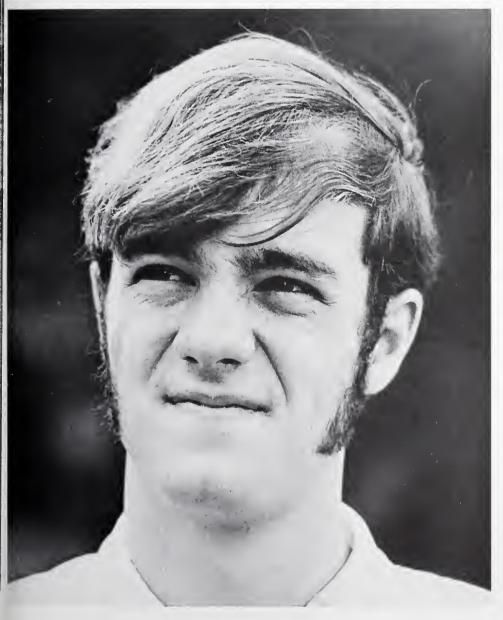

Tuesday's Child Is Full of Grace:

Just like fair faces, there are a lot of graces. Not all of us have the bodily grace of a dancer or an acrobat. Some of us have academic grace, or social grace, or good old down-to-earth human grace. Maybe even Amazing Grace.

Wednesday's Child Is Full of Woe:

Whether you look at life through the cloudy eyes of a pessimist or the rose-tinted glasses of an optimist, there's a lot of woe to be found between Monday morning and Friday afternoon. Many of these hard times seem to center on Wednesday. Monday and Tuesday have taken their toll and the weekend seems a thousand miles away.

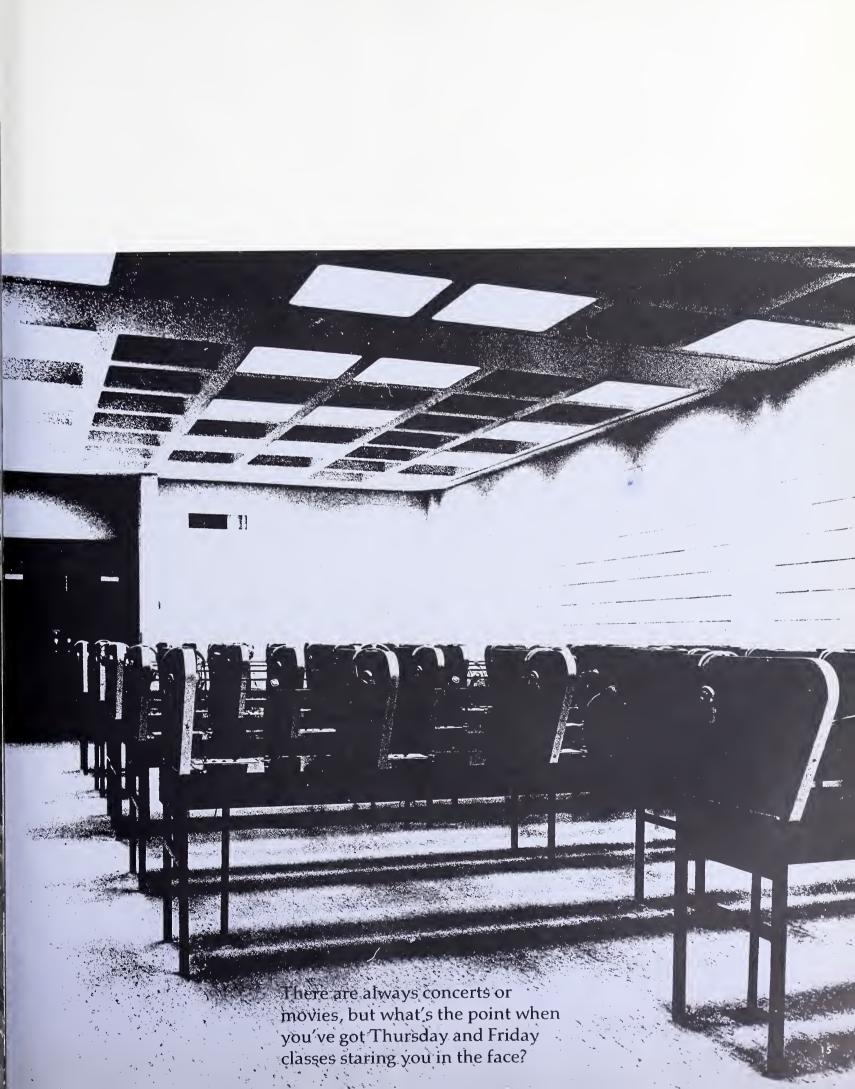

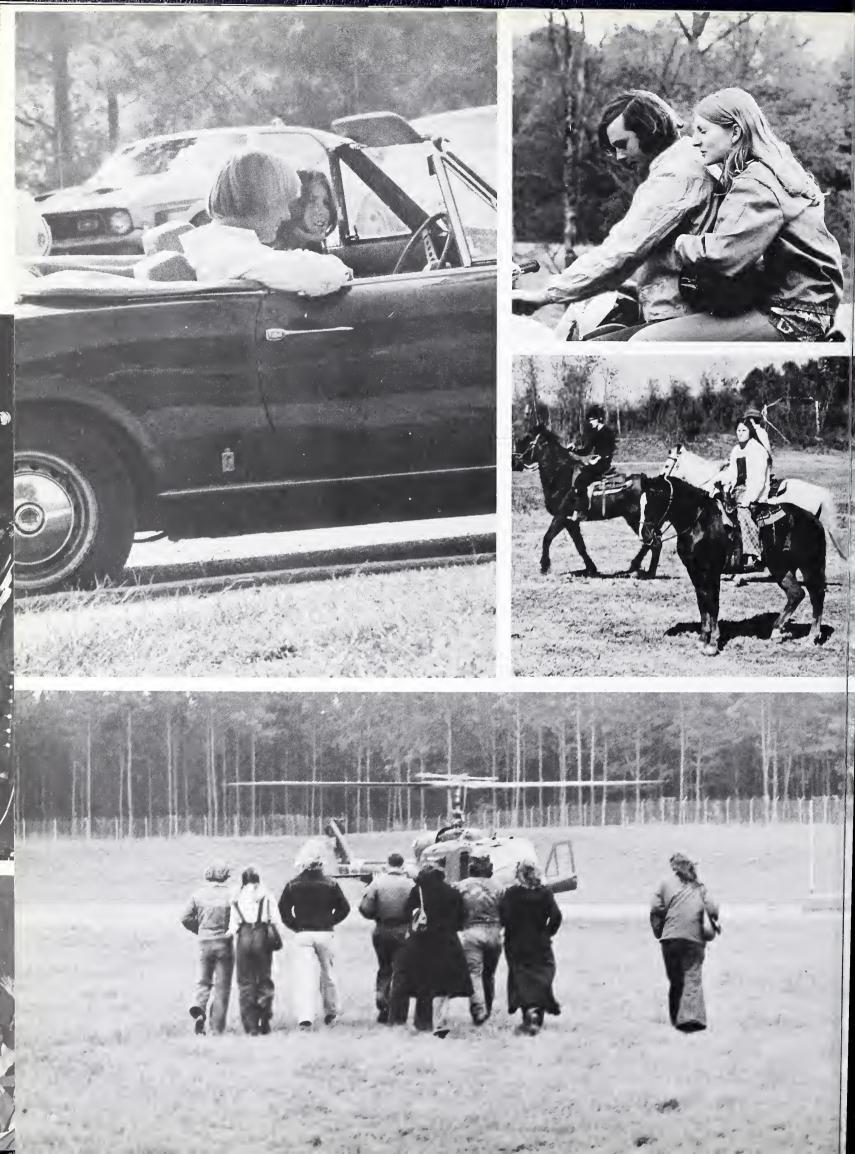

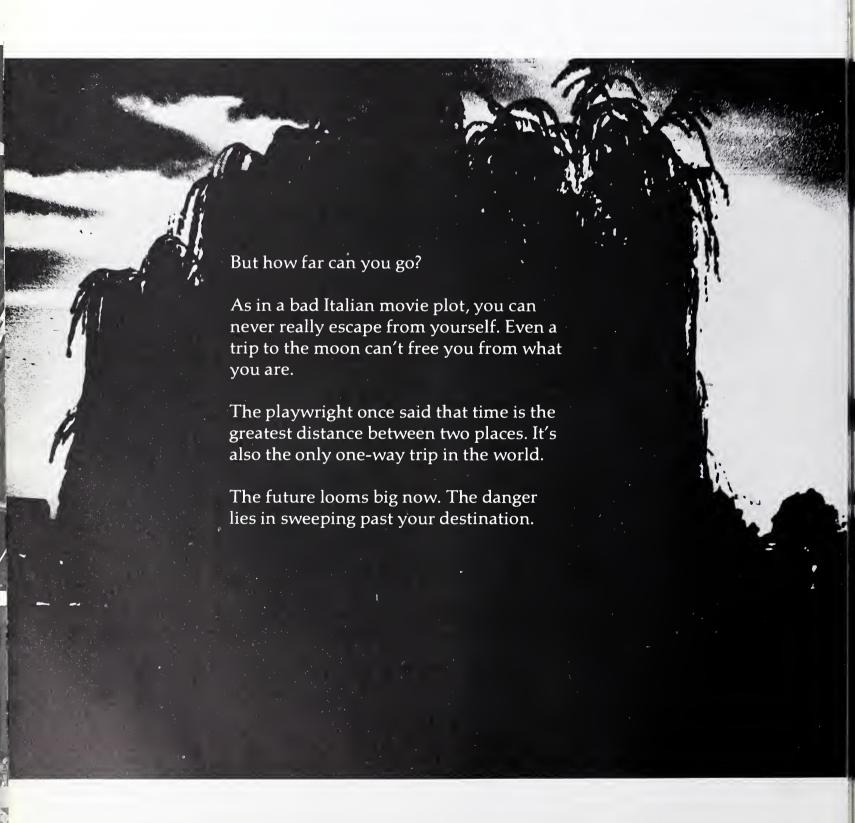

Thursday's Child Has Far To Go:

Atlanta. New York. Even Bremen or Villa Rica. There are a lot of places to go to besides Carrollton.

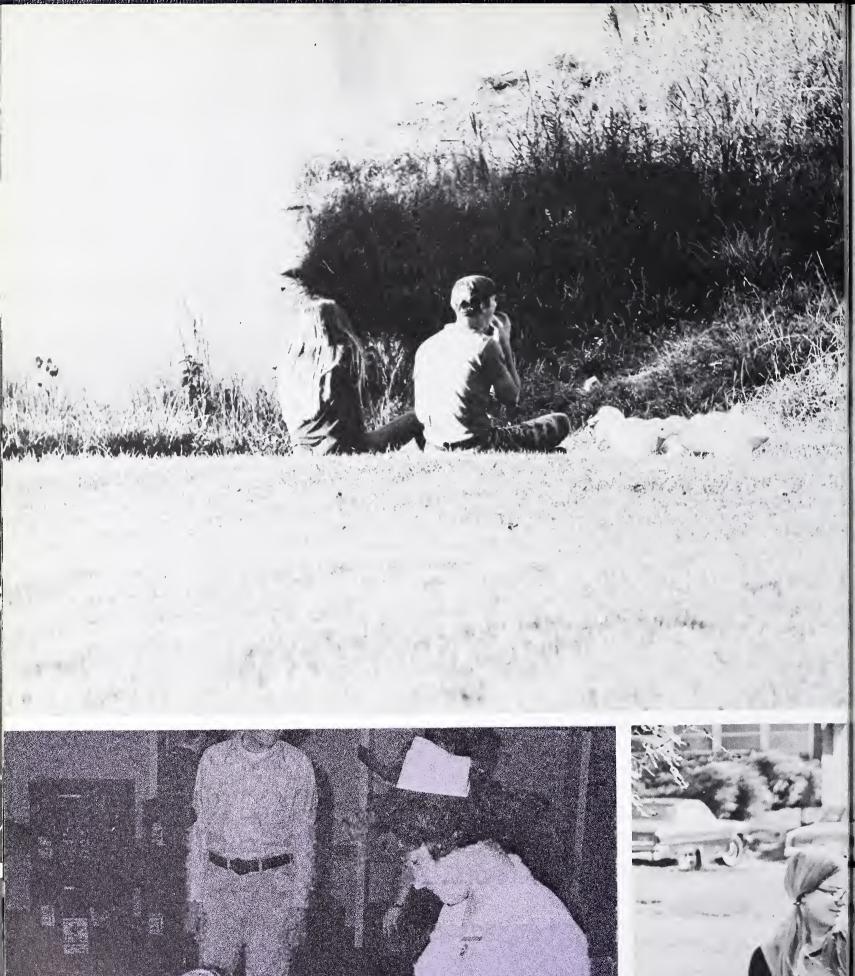

Some hitch-hike; some go in cars, or ride bicycles, or take various bizarre forms of transportation. Everyone seems to be going somewhere.

Friday's Child Is Loving and Giving:

Charity. Sharing. Giving and taking. The flexing of body and mind and will. Poets praise it, psychologists define it. Some people run away from it, but all of us live in the circle of its influence.

Saturday's Child Works Hard for a Living:

Some people here seem to work hard . . . drive maintenance trucks, type, put together yearbooks, cook hamburgers at Hardee's, or do anything else to get a little beer money.

But students here don't work for money only. Some work for grades, for charity, or for recognition.

A few even seem to work hard at goofing off.

And the Child That Is Born on the Sabbath Day Is Bonny and Blithe, and Good, and Gay.

On Sunday we're inclined to be reverential, good — or bonny, blithe, and gay.

For whatever the purpose, on Sunday, like no other day, there's a stillness in the air that helps prepare for Monday's onslaught.

Time . . .
Flowing down soft,
Wending its way through the weary years
Like an old fat river.

Sifting down through a T-maze Of old hopes and dusty dreams And half-forgotten smiles.

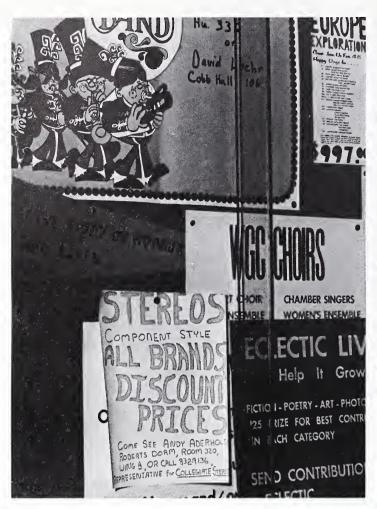

Flow-running through time, Gaining a little as you go, Grabbing for all the gusto you can.

The purpose of West Georgia College is to provide an educational environment wherein each student may attain a disciplined and open mind, a capacity for self-development, and the knowledge and skills essential for living in a free society.

In pursuit of these goals, the college environment begins within the student and carries through the schools of Business, Education, Arts and Sciences, and the Graduate school. These schools stress creative teaching, encourage research, and enhance the extensive progress of knowledge through varied studies. The college also serves to promote the development of human and natural resources by providing continuing education and public service programs.

ALMA MATER

In the western pines of Georgia standing strong and true.

Our wise Alma Mater beckons to the red and blue

We will all remember those days that we spent with you,

We'll recall the moments that we laughed and loved and grew.

Tho you be in learning founded, youthful yet you be

While thus guided by tradition yet you still breathe free

Dear West Georgia, dear West Georgia, standing strong and true,

Our wise Alma Mater beckons to the red and the blue.

WGC Cheerleaders and Fans

The West Georgia College Cheerleaders are a group of twelve dedicated individuals who spend long hours after classes fall quarter practicing for their winter quarter job of cheering for the Braves basketball team. The fact that WGC rarely loses a game on their home hardwood should be adequate proof that the cheerleaders are well-trained in their duty of getting the students behind the ball team one-hundred percent. Several times during the season the fans' support has helped the team to come from behind in the waning moments to edge out their opponent in a particularly tight game.

Braves Capture

"Basketball Jones, Basketball Jones" — Cheech Marin and Thomas Chong.

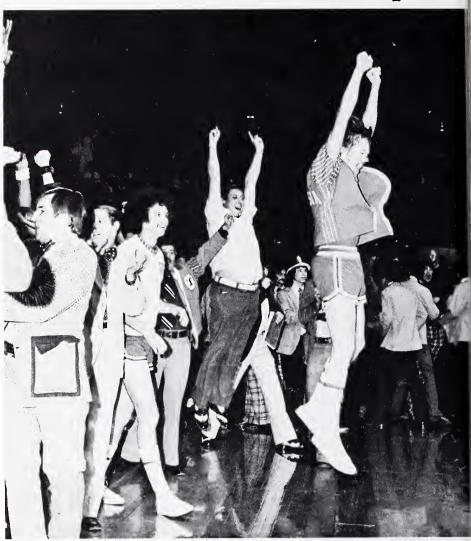

Once again at West Georgia College, basketball reigned supreme during winter quarter. All of the students' activities in one way or another were related to basketball. Studying was performed at such strange times as 2:00 a.m. or 3:30 p.m. or disregarded completely. On nights of a scheduled basketball game, Curt's and all of the other Carroll County beer stores did a booming business. A few of the more dedicated even hoarded their spare change in an effort to obtain gasoline, in the face of a fuel crisis, to attend out-of-town games. This rabid student support has gained the college field house a reputation around the state as a terrifying place for opposing coaches and players.

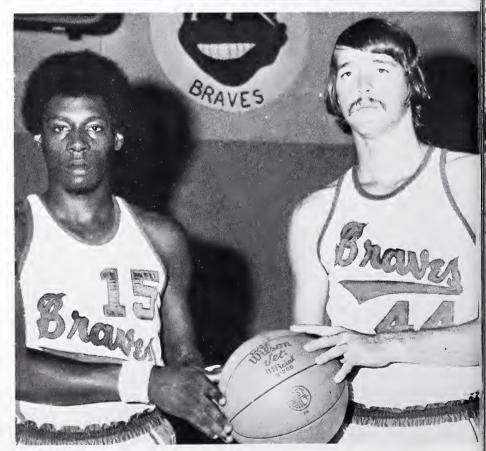

"Way to go, Foots!" "Come on, Ref, get off your backside and call one right!" "Awright; good shooting, Tom!" "Defense, Braves, Defense!" These are only a few of the cries that can be heard, either separately or simultaneously, at West Georgia games. The Braves basketball fan is a strange creature, indeed. Invariably dressed in sneakers, blue jeans, and a Disneyland tee shirt, he sits in the east stands of the gym for two hours in a drunken stupor, proclaiming the Braves an equal match with any basketball team created by God, man, or John Wooden. When the game ends, unless he is restrained, he will run out onto the court, madly screaming. There is, of course, no particular reason for doing this. It is just the thing to do. But above all a West Georgia fan stays with the team and has helped pull the Braves team through a lot of close home games.

This year the Braves only lost four games — all four of these were on the road — and three were lost by five points or less. Columbus College thrashed the Braves in Muskogee County, but on the return bout our team stomped the Cougars into mud 106-68 in front of a capacity home crowd.

The team is composed of ten outstanding individuals. Clarence "Foots" Walker is an All-American ball player from the word "GO," whether he is sinking a twenty-foot jump shot or driving to the basket. Foots more than likely has a pro career ahead of him. Another All-American is Tom "Terrific" Turner, who toward the middle of the season became the most prolific scorer in West Georgia history, smashing the mark previously held by the great center Charlie Hamilton. "Jumpin" "Jerry Faulkner is probably the only 5' 11" center in college basketball. His jumping ability is indeed demonstrated by the fact that Jerry was the leading rebounder on the 1973 team. "Steady" Dave Edmonds was another fine player this year. Without being flashy, Dave was always there when some hard points or a clutch play was needed. Late-bloomer Randy Rountree came on as a fine starting center during the season. His back-up, Pat Magley, also saw plenty of action.

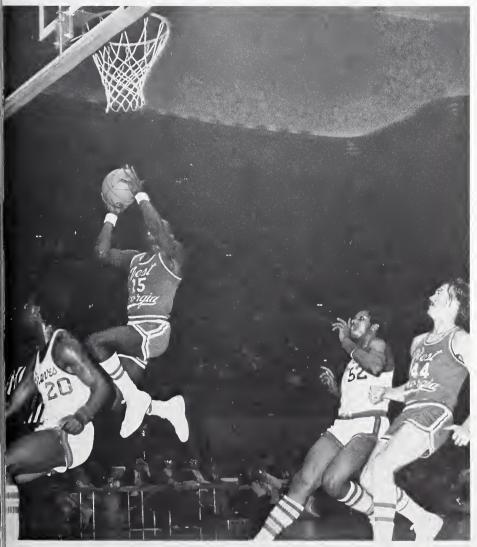

This year the Braves captured the first South Atlantic Crown ever, in a tournament held at the West Georgia Field House. The Braves took the tournament crown without too much trouble; however, their stiffest competition came from Valdosta State and Armstrong State College.

National Title

Expectations for the Braves this year were set high and for the most part, fulfilled. This year the Braves ravaged arch-rival LaGrange three times. However, once again, the Braves failed to defeat Valdosta State in the south Georgia city — a feat which has never been performed by West Georgia teams.

The team advanced to the national NAIA tourney by virtue of their first-place finish in the NAIA 25th District. The nationals were held in Kansas City, where thirty-two teams competed for top honors. The tournament games were played every day for a full week. West Georgia was given little hope for winning until they defeated heavily favored Gardner-Webb.

The Saturday night finale pitted West Georgia against Alcorn A. & M. in a wild championship affair won by our Braves. As a special honor to go with the national title, Clarence "Foots" Walker was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player. This was the first time ever a team from the great state of Georgia captured a national basketball title.

The Braves are under the fine coaching of Roger Kaiser, former Georgia Tech All-American, and Jerry Reynolds, who has one of the best minds for basketball in the state. It is these two men who master-mind the great teams consistently trotted out by the school. In addition to coaching basketball, Coach Kaiser is athletic director for the school.

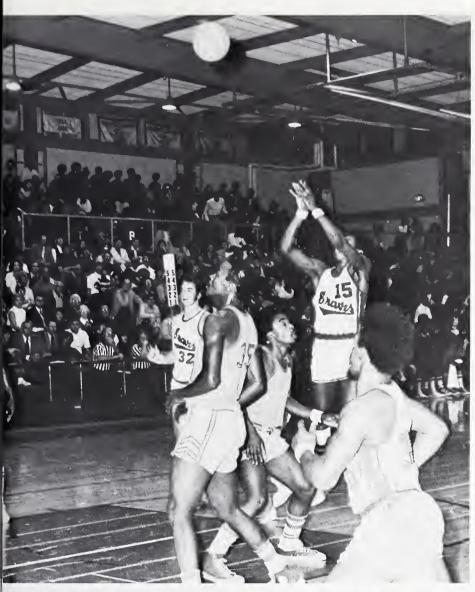

One of the newer buildings on campus, the West Georgia College Health and Physical Education Building is the headquarters for intercollegiate and intramural sports. Through this maze of band-aids, resin, and sweaty tennis shoes, many fine athletes, men and women, have come forth to represent the school in athletic competition. Inside these hallowed portals, the basketball and volleyball teams play their matches, while the fans cheer their teams and jeer their rivals. But there are other things in this building, mainly the offices of Coaches Bill Webb and Archie White. Coach Webb's cross-country team won the first South Atlantic trophy awarded, and each year Coach White fields a baseball team any school could be very proud of. Because of the vast budget allocated basketball, these teams operate on, at times, somewhat limited funds. This is not to mention the lower allocation received by golf, tennis, or women's sports. And how about the Soccer Club which represented the school, but was not even recognized as an intercollegiate sport by the Athletic Department? Although the Athletic Department generally does a highly commendable job, it just might be wise to reexamine our priorities.

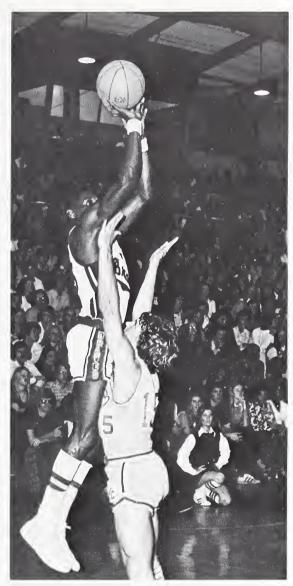

One element that belongs solely to basket-ball is the cheerleaders. It is the sight of these tarts in their little costumes that usually keep the drunken male fans in good spirits when the game gets slow. Even if the cheerleaders do mess up a routine, it is worth it to watch them wiggle out to the center of the court where they perform the cheers, gleefully shaking their nether regions to the delight of the fans, who applaud madly after each sporting "Rah, Rah, Rah!" But seriously, the cheerleaders are a great asset to the fans and players alike. It is their spirit, enthusiasm, and loud mouths that generate the kind of noise that the West Georgia fans are famous for.

The 1973 edition of the West Georgia Braves was one of the college's best baseball teams. Led by Coach Archie White, the Braves compiled a 23 and 9 record, and placed second in the Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. The Braves fell just short of Shorter College for the crown.

Our Braves placed five men on the All-Conference Team. They were catcher Phil Williams, centerfielder Tim Dedmon, rightfielder Steve Traylor, pitcher Ricky Camp, and second baseman Rick Payne. In addition, Payne also received West Georgia's Scholastic Athlete Award for his 3.7 grade-point average.

In the District 25 NAIA Tournament the Braves were without the services of leading hitters Dedmon and Traylor who collided in the Braves final conference game. However, the Braves had Valdosta State 2-1 for seven innings before finally dumping the game by leaving as many as eight men on base.

The 1974 edition of the Braves features many returning starters and a fine pitching staff. This team promises to be one of the finest ever fielded at West Georgia College.

Returns to WGC

After several years' absence, soccer has returned to West Georgia on an intercollegiate basis. The sport is not funded by the school as are the school's major sports. The activity came about through the efforts of the West Georgia Soccer Club.

The general manager of the club for fall quarter, 1973, was Dr. Dave Dugan, and the team was under the field direction of Coach Ed Lambert.

When proposals to go ahead with the project were realized, Dr. Dugan hastily arranged a six-game schedule in which the team participated. With more adequate planning and practice next year, the team should be much improved. Hopefully, it will receive more sanction from the school's athletic department.

Under the able direction of Coach Tom Leaming, the 1973 West Georgia tennis team captured the Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference title for the third consecutive year. The WGC men met their toughest competition in the GIAC tournament from the Shorter College Hawks. The Braves captured seven of the nine matches in the tournament, with Shorter taking the remaining two.

After winning the Conference title, the West Georgia netters advanced to the District Twenty-Five Playoffs of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. The winner of this tournament advanced to the national competition in Kansas City. The Braves were edged in this tournament, placing second. Joey Phelan and Sam Stovall were selected as Most Valuable Players for the year.

The West Georgia Tennis Team will be much improved in the 1974 season with many of last year's starters returning and the addition of several talented freshmen. With this squad the Braves should have a fine chance for a trip to Kansas City.

Last Year's Star.

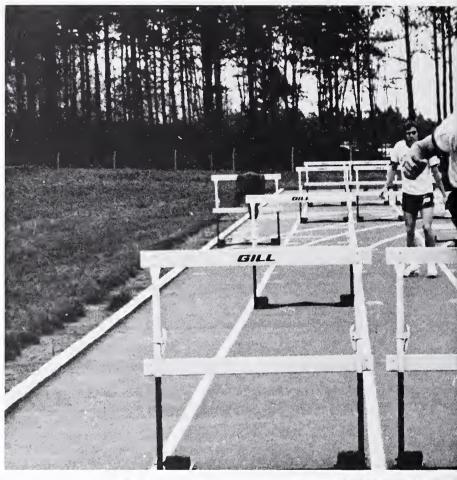

Veteran is the word to describe the 1973-1974 West Georgia track and field teams. Nine individuals that participated in the NAIA outdoor track and field competition will compose the nucleus of this fine team. They are led by Larry Turner in the 440 yard dash, Jessie Fields in the triple jump, and Joe LaBoone who finished fourth in the NAIA national tournament in the pole-vault, with a jump of 15 feet 2 inches.

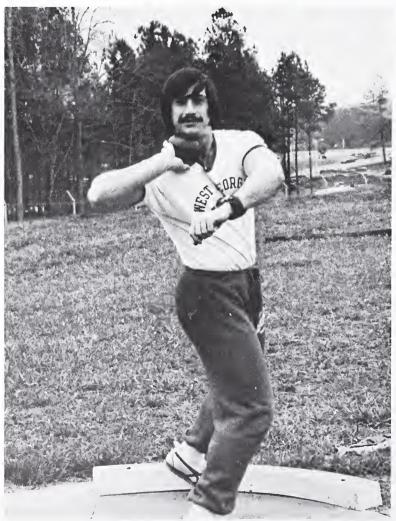

Gary Smith is the co-record holder in the 60 yard high hurdles with a time of 7.4 seconds for the school. He was joined this year in indoor and outdoor competition by Doug Miller.

In addition to Turner, West Georgia had two strong quarter-milers in the sprints, Randy Houston and Wesley Brown, who also compose half of the mile relay team, which is sure to be a national contender. Brown is also a competitor in both the long and triple jumps.

The Cross-Country team, which won the first South Atlantic Conference trophy in the sport, was led by Seniors David Harris and Ernie Rainey.

Heroes Volley Their Way

The West Georgia College women's volley-ball team carried the name of our school to the campus of Worster College in Worster, Ohio, for the national volleyball tournament in December, 1973. This was the second straight year that the "Heroes" were participants in the national competition. They achieved this honor by placing second in the Southeastern Regional Tournament in November at WGC. They were defeated only by Florida State University in the championship match.

However, when tournament time rolled around, it seemed that there was not enough money in the till for the Heroes to make the trip. In order to fill the coffers, the women were forced to borrow money to cover expenses, the loan to be repayed winter quarter by the team. When a college team has a chance to represent its school in a national tournament, a sorry state of affairs has been reached when finances are insufficient for the trip.

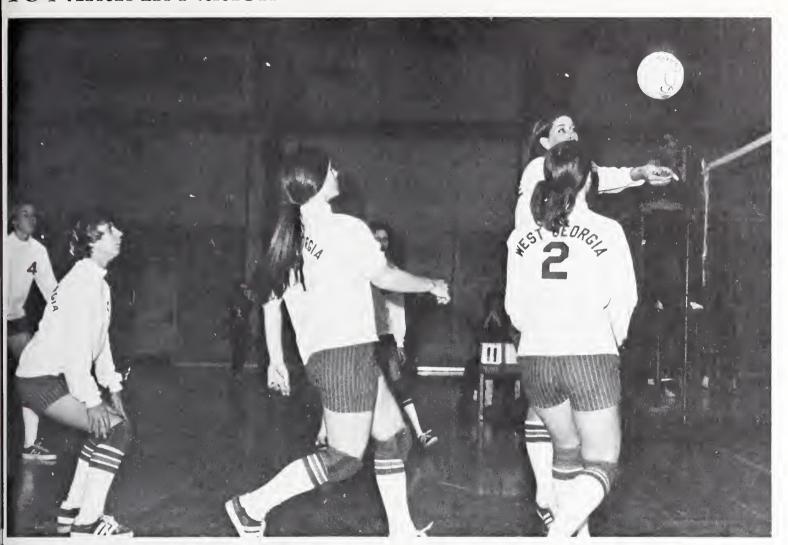

The Heroes, under the able direction of Miss Dot McNabb, placed ninth in the nation at the tournament, in which twenty-four schools participated.

This is not the entire tennis team. However, because of early deadlines the entire team cannot be pictured. We feel, however, that these women, along with their teammates, deserve recognition for the outstanding job they do in representing West Georgia.

The Lady Braves, under the direction of Coach Barbara Brown, started off this year's season on a winning streak. The women's team receives little recognition considering the outstanding job they do at West Georgia.

The Bravettes, the dance-drill team of West Georgia College, perform at the halftime of all the Braves' basketball home games. The Bravettes are under the competent guiding hand of veteran performer Wren Gaston.

This year, the WGC Bravettes received a special honor. On January 27, 1974, they traveled to the Omni in Atlanta and performed at halftime of the Atlanta Hawks basketball tilt with the New York Knickerbockers. This game was televised nationwide by the CBS television network's "NBA Game of the Week."

No matter how the game turns out on a basketball night at WGC, one thing the crowds will be pleased with is the halftime show, as long as the Bravettes are featured.

The WGC Pep Squad is the newest performing group on the Carrollton campus. The pep squad performs at time-outs during the Braves' basketball games. Under able direction of Virginia Render and Robbyn Mayes, the pep squad has added a new dimension to school spirit at West Georgia College.

WGC Golfers Really Know How to Swing

The West Georgia College Golf Team, as a rule, receives little or no recognition during spring quarter in Carrollton. They should, however, for the Braves' linksmen continue to represent the college in fine fashion at Sunset Hills Country Club and other courses around the state. Last year the golf team lost only three matches during the regular season, each match by a mere one or two strokes. At the Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Tournament, the Braves led the field until the final nine holes of competition. They hung in there, however, and finished second in the conference. In 1974, the West Georgia Golf Team, under the guidance of a new coach, Mr. Skip Yow, was expecting another fine season.

Vest Georgia's Trio of Majorettes Performs at Braves Games

This year, although the personnel was cut in half, the Majorettes performed at the halftimes of the Braves basketball games. Composed of two veterans, Karen Friedline and Patti Willis, and one rookie, Patti Johnson, the girls contended with miscued records and often unsympathetic crowds. However, considering that the ovations were more than courteous, it would seem that the basketball fans did enjoy the Majorettes' routines.

Intramural Sports Action

Goal Line Glory!

The West Georgia College Student Intramural Association is the governing body of the activities that are enjoyed by several hundred students annually. The complaints lodged against the intramurals are as numerous as the students. Up until this year, one of the most frequent complaints was about the ineptness of the students who officiated the games. In an attempt to improve this situation, a clinic was held to be attended by all student officials. The officials remained the scapegoats for many lost games.

One, Two, Cha-Cha-Cha!

Holds Interest of Many Students

Pistol Pete gets two against strong Delta defense!

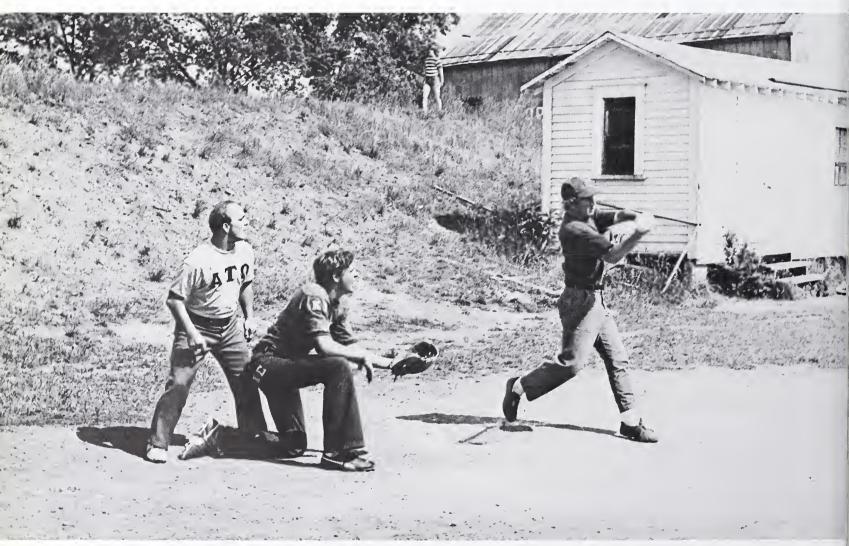

Football, football; Who's got the football?

"There is no joy in Mudville. Mighty Casey has struck out."

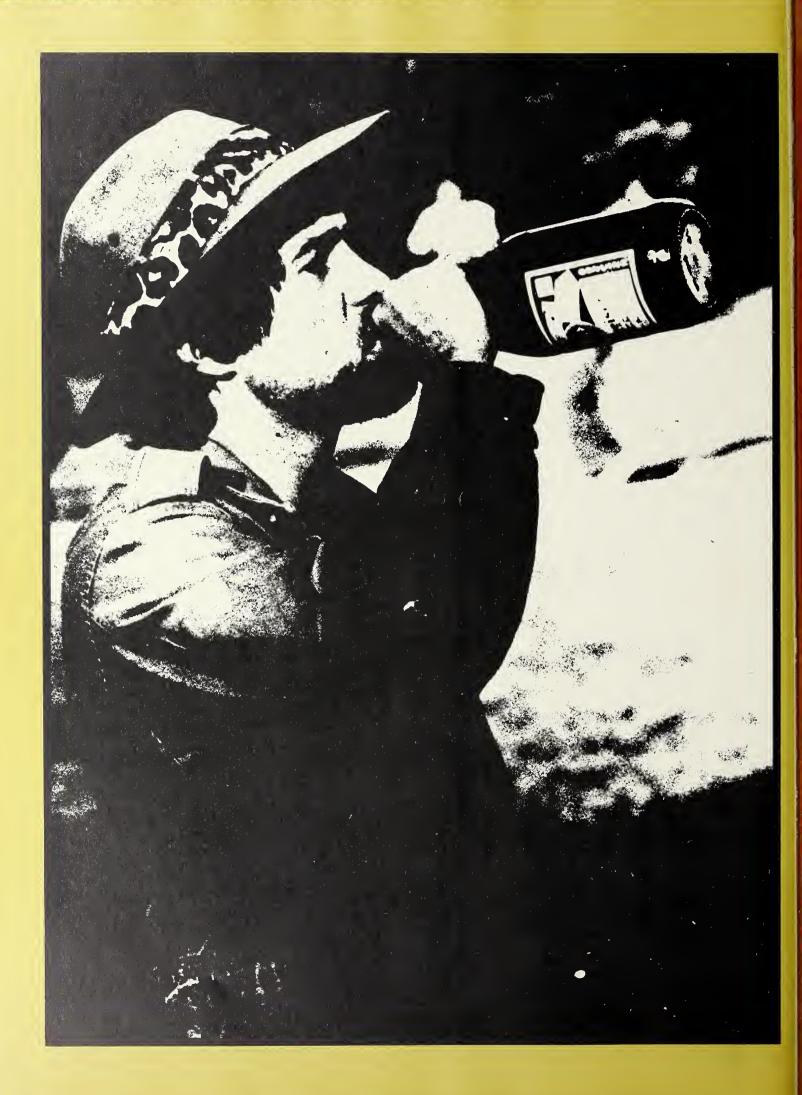

A hard night on the hardwood!

A controversy arose in the fall of 1973, when attention was called to the fact that the unbridled consumption of alcoholic beverages had reached a new high at athletic events. In other words, people were drinking like fish, which is definitely against college regulations, when it occurs on school property. Although the practice was indeed a long-standing one, a furor was aroused not only in S.I.A. circles, but also in Mandeville Hall in the office of Charles E. Smith, Dean of Student Services. Calling a special meeting of intramural team managers, Dean Smith asked that the students work to curb the problem themselves, rather than force college officials to take action. Although the drinking continued unabated, attention was not called to it again, perhaps unwisely.

The Alpha Gamma Delta Squirrels have started the year off by adding to their treasures 15 new pledges. The sisters have greeted them by showing how the sorority participates in activities such as the "Toys for Tots" drive with the Sigma Nu's, Sweepstakes, which holds competition between the fraternities, and raising money for cleft palate. The Squirrels have tucked away under their paws . . . first place in the Homecoming Float Competition, first place in the Scholastic placement, and the award for the most participants in the TKE Road Rally. The Alpha Gams, proud of their close sisterhood, have achieved friendliness and warmth.

Alpha Tau Omega started the year off with a bang. Rush parties, pajama parties, Halloween costume parties, hayrides, and an annual Luau party all add to the excitement surrounding the ATO's. With the addition of the "Dirty Dozen" pledges, the ATO's foresee a bright future. On the more serious side of the fraternity, the brothers actively support all student organizations, the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation, blood drives, and the Walk for Mankind. The ATO's have excelled in intramural sports and academics. The closeness and friendship of the brothers may be expressed in the words, "he ain't heavy, he's my brother."

Chi O's Win First Place in Softball

Fall quarter the Chi Omega sisters spread their wings by adding 16 new pledges to their sorority. These pledges have many things to look forward to in sisterhood by participating in the Muscular Dystrophy campaign, the Sigma Nu all Sing, Greek Week, Sweepstakes, the Annual Easter Egg Hunt for faculty children, and the annual White Carnation Ball. From participating in various activities, the sisters have won first place in the Chariot Race, and first place in the Softball Intramurals. By caring, the Chi Omegas have shown that they do give a hoot.

Goes to Chi Phi's

The Chi Phi's received their Charter on May 18, 1973, which was an exciting day for the brothers and their parents. Besides having parties all year round, the Chi Phi's took time out to win the Scholastic Award for fraternities. The Chi Phi's participate in the Muscular Dystrophy campaign, and spend Easter with underprivileged children. One year was not good enough for the Chi Phi's to win the Blood Drive, but two years may have to hold them until next year. Chi Phi's are also known to put away a few kegs of beer, pick up hay in the middle of the night after hay rides, and have parties anywhere, anytime.

Delta Delta Delta Shows Enthusiasm

The sisters of Delta Delta are often involved with activities on campus. Their participation is readily seen as they have shown enthusiasm for campus projects such as the Blood Drive, Intramural sports, and Greek Week. The Tri-Delts have been known for their concern for the community by raising money for Muscular Dystrophy, SGA Equalizer Fund, Cancer Drive and the Kidney Foundation.

Delta Sigma Theta

Delta Sigma Theta is a public service organization, dedicated to a program of sharing membership skills and services in the public interest. Kappa Delta Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta was established May 26, 1973, at West Georgia. The Delta Five-Point Service Program calls for its membership to conduct projects in the areas of Educational Development, Economic Development, Community and International Involvement, Housing and Urban Development, and Mental Health. Kappa Delta Chapter has adopted two area Headstart Centers. Plans for the Center included a Halloween party, presenting toys for the children at Christmas, a clothing drive, and other activities centered around the kids. Delta will also sponsor games and planned activities at the community recreation center once a week.

As a new Fraternity, Delta Tau Delta has swung into full participation of both on-campus and off-campus activities. During Greek Week, the Delts won the award for the best looking chariot. The fraternity held a Halloween party for underprivileged children, and gave a surprise birthday party for Dr. Pafford. The Delts ended the quarter by having their first annual formal Rainbow Banquet. The fraternity holds an average of 2.6 scholastically and is now open for new leaders and new ideas in the fraternal system. Truth, Faith, Courage, and Power are the four fundamental principles of Deltism.

The Lambda Delta Chapter of Kappa Sigma fraternity received its charter on April 2, 1971, making it the first national fraternity on the campus of West Georgia College. Since that time, the Kappa Sigs have savored the glory of winning first place in Homecoming Float Competition, and being semi-finalists in football, basketball, softball, volleyball, tennis, and swimming. The members of the brotherhood are outstanding in all phases of student life at WGC, holding numerous positions in a variety of student organizations. In academics, a large number of brothers have been named to Who's Who. Combining their efforts into one force, the Kappa Sigs have aided in the March of Dimes, the Blood Drive and the Cancer Drive. The Kappa Sigs continue to accomplish many outstanding goals, made possible through their friendship and cooperation.

Lambda Chi Alpha began this year on a fresh note. A reorganization with the elections of all new officers brought new, exciting leadership to this fraternity. With Mark Crawford as President and Gene Johnson as Vice-President, the Lambda Chi's have great hopes for the future. Participating in the Circle K Blood Drive, Alpha Gamma Delta Sweepstakes, Clean up Carrollton Day, and all intramural sports, the Lambda Chi's are seen all over campus. Lambda Chi is the sponsor for an annual Sweepstakes, sparking competition between sorority girls. Always seeking action, the Lambda Chi's are out to excel in all they do.

Pi Kappa Alpha Wins All-Sports Trophy

The brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha can be seen participating in almost every activity on campus. Their enthusiasm is reflected in all intramural sports as they won the All-Sports trophy for 1972-73. Helping others is the goal of the Pikes as they have participated in the Red Cross Blood Drive, Muscular Dystrophy Drive, and many other civic services. The Pikes are active in many other phases of campus life such as sponsoring the Pike Bike Race, having members on the West Georgia basketball team, and being big brothers and beaus for sororities. Pikes are known for the establishment of "friendship on a firmer and more lasting basis."

The Sigma Nu's help the community by holding a "clean up" day at a Day-Care Center and sponsoring the "Toys for Tots" with the Alpha Gams. In addition, they have won first place for two years in the Red Cross Blood Drive. The Sigma Nu's sponsor the annual "Sigma Nu All Sing" each winter quarter which features choral competition between the Greeks. The Sigma Nu's are outstanding in athletics, with first-place wins in intramurals, basketball, Tug of War, Hamburger eating, and Cake-Runs. As the best fraternity on campus for another year, the Sigma Nu's captured first place in the Homecoming float competition, and won the "Fraternity Spirit" award presented by the cheerleaders.

There is nothing like a house to bring a brotherhood even closer together. With the acquisition of their new house on Bowen Street, the Brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon have surely proven as much; for along with a new house they also acquired an outstanding group of new pledges and new TEKI's. Their activities include an annual Red Carnation Ball and semi-annual TKE Road-Rally. Public Service Projects include lightbulb sales for the Lions Club and the Blood Drive. The TKE's have received recognition by placing second in the Georgia Tech TKE Spring Fest, winning first place in the Public Service Weekend, and receiving a certificate of recognition from the Optimist Club. The spirit of Tau Kappa Epsilon is one of growing enthusiasm. They are continually showing that the TKE stands not for wealth, rank, or honor but for personal worth and character.

Chieftain Survives in Spite of Itself

Hampered by a low budget, apathetic student body, and a deranged editor and staff, the Chieftain has survived another year at West Georgia College. The constantly missed deadlines, over-exposed photographs, and uncooperative organizations have led us all to the brink of insanity and hopefully produced a reasonably good yearbook. Our special thanks go to the SGA for not totally destroying our meager budget. Staff member of the year award goes to Martin Mosteller for his frequent fits of rage which kept us all entertained.

Judo Club Offers Philosophy and Sport

The Judo Club at WGC meets twice a week for competition and self-defense. This is one way that college students learn that some of the ancient ideas are not out-dated.

Karate Club Cultivates Mind and Body

The Karate Club meets every Tuesday and Thursday evening from 6:30 to 9:00 with one goal in mind — to develop in mind and body an integrated person with interests in the development of a sound body and in the cultivation of higher levels of mind and spirit. The instructor is Dan Withrow.

Thirty-seven Fridays yearly, the West Georgian is published and distributed at West Georgia College, serving as a means of communicating the news, of entertaining the reader, and of bringing about desired changes through the voicing of editorial opinions.

The West Georgian is a faithful recorder of the every day history written on campus. In addition, journalism students have the opportunity to watch text-book lessons turn into practical, valuable experience.

Nerves thin as the twilight sinks to darkness, then to dawn, but all are rewarded when the final piece yearly continues to win state and national awards.

ARA-Slater's philosophy is a unique, systematic approach designed to achieve our most important goal: STUDENT SATISFACTION. This concept is a result of our experience with millions of students. We have the flexibility to understand your needs and the capability to satisfy them.

At Clemson, ARA demonstrates practical, new methods for providing nourishing, well-balanced meals to athletes, students and staff. Our corporate and regional specialists give ARA's dining service manager expert advice in planning menus, purchasing goods, controlling waste, utilizing labor. The support of this team effort is carried out daily in Schilletter Hall and Harcombe Commons, and at the Clemson House Buffeteria. It is our desire to serve students what they want and to accommodate them by providing this same efficient service for special events or festive holiday meals.

We're here to provide the type of service that will benefit the entire school and community. THAT'S WHAT WE THINK A DINING SERVICE IS ALL ABOUT.
